

I drive 150 miles per day, and need XM radio's weather and news service to provide accurate and dependable information. There are no radio stations on the route I travel that can or have ever provided the same service XM radio provides. There is no competition between land based radio and satellite based XM.

Let land based radio transmit Howard Stern programming to people who want to listen to that kind of programming, and let the rest of us have the programming we need and want from XM.
